The Search for Something More

Many individuals embark on a lifelong journey of searching for something more - a missing piece that will bring them inner peace and fulfillment. This search takes various forms for different people. Some turn to religion, while others explore different spiritual practices or engage in deep introspection.

Whatever path you choose, the search for something more is a universal human experience. It is a quest for understanding, a desire to transcend the mundane aspects of life, and a longing to connect with something greater than ourselves.

Finding Home in Faith

When we talk about finding home in faith, we refer to finding a sense of belonging and security in our beliefs and values. Faith can be a refuge, a sanctuary where we find solace and strength in times of difficulty.

For some, finding home in faith refers to discovering religion and being part of a religious community. It involves engaging in rituals, attending worship services, and following religious teachings. This sense of belonging provides comfort and a connection to something beyond our own existence.

Others find home in faith by exploring spirituality outside the boundaries of organized religion. They may connect with nature, practice meditation, or explore various philosophies and practices that resonate with their soul.

This can be a deeply personal journey, allowing individuals to find their own unique path to inner peace and fulfillment.

The Role of Faith in Daily Life

Faith is not only a source of comfort in difficult times, but it also plays a significant role in our daily lives. It provides a framework for making decisions, navigating relationships, and finding purpose. Faith can guide us in living a moral and compassionate life, reminding us of our interconnectedness and the importance of kindness towards others.

Moreover, faith can bring a sense of hope, even in the face of adversity. It gives us the strength to persevere and the courage to embrace change. When we have faith in something greater than ourselves, we can find meaning in the midst of chaos and uncertainty.

Finding Faith in Others

In our search for faith, we often find inspiration in the lives of others. Whether it is through their acts of kindness, their unwavering resilience, or their unwavering belief, witnessing faith in others can ignite a spark within us.

Through genuine connections with others, we can find a sense of community and support. Surrounding ourselves with individuals who share our values and beliefs can strengthen our own faith and provide encouragement along our journey.

The Transformative Power of Faith

Finding faith can be a transformative experience. It can shape our perspective, change our priorities, and lead us to a more fulfilling life. When we find that missing piece and establish a strong faith foundation, our entire being can be uplifted.

Moreover, faith can provide a sense of purpose and direction. It can help us navigate the complexities of life and make choices that align with our values. With faith as our guiding light, we can achieve remarkable things and inspire others along the way.

The journey of finding faith is a deeply personal one. It is about searching for something more and finding a sense of belonging and purpose. Whether you find home in religion or in spirituality, faith can be a transformative force in your life.

So, if you are searching for that missing piece, embark on this journey with an open heart and an open mind. Allow yourself to explore different paths, connect with others, and embrace the power of faith. In doing so, you may just find your way home.

"Despite the complexities [of] this tale, Finding Faith reads like the honeymoon stage of a relationship. It's filled with laughter, an idealized reality, and an endless craving for the story to continue. Luke's and Mary's love offers a temporary euphoria that shows romance is sometimes found where it is least expected." --Publisher's Weekly

□ Like mother, like daughter? Mary sure hopes not. □

Two decades ago, Mary's mom walked out. A few days later, her dad started drinking. He never stopped. Mary swore off alcohol. She also decided she'd never have kids, just in case she took after her parents.

A year ago, Mary's boyfriend dumped her because she didn't want to have any children.

Yesterday, for the first time in a year, Mary met someone. Someone hunky. Someone smart. Someone who made her goofy smile. Someone who sent a shiver up her spine.

Tomorrow she's going on a first date.

She won't find out he's a widower with two kids for at least two more days. Can she overcome her fear and find the faith to trust someone else. . .and herself?

**Author's Note: Titles are really hard! I struggled to find a good one for this book, and I've discovered that some readers think this book is Christian fiction. It's free of bad language and adult content, but it's not religious in nature. Make your choices accordingly.

Trade Reviews and Author Recommendations

"With an opening line that is both assertive and striking, the book begins with a strong narrator who claims her own story. As Mary tells her past, she becomes vulnerable with those in her life and her readers.

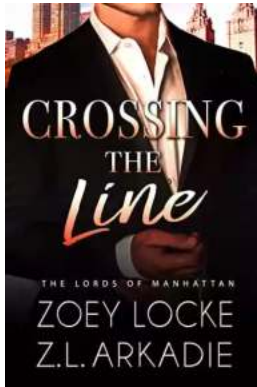

Baker's dialogue has the capacity to reflect the diction of a thirty-year-old and a five-year-old, encompassing a wide range of perspectives. Amy's and Chase's imperfect sputters and continual deviance paint an authentic picture of children's behavior.

The Christmas setting nearly typecasts this book with all the novelistic qualities of a Hallmark movie. The honeyed beginning and equally passionate ending provide a childish delight that kindles the spirit of a hopeless romantic.

Despite the complexities littered throughout this tale, Finding Faith reads like the honeymoon stage of a relationship. It's filled with laughter, an idealized reality, and an endless craving for the story to continue. Luke's and Mary's love offers a temporary euphoria that shows romance is sometimes found where it is least expected." Publisher's Weekly

"Finding Faith is a heartwarming and brilliant story about love, loss, and learning what you really want." USA Today Bestselling author, Elana Johnson

"A fun romance! I highly enjoyed it. Bridget knows how to tug at your heartstrings. A fantastic read!" NYT Bestselling Author, Victorine E. Lieske
