Her journey began with a deep longing for union with the Divine and led her to renounce the materialistic world. She embraced the path of Sufism, a mystic branch of Islam that emphasizes the inward journey towards attaining spiritual enlightenment. Through rigorous meditation, devotion, and self-reflection, Lalla Ded started unraveling the mysteries of existence.

Lalla Ded's life was marked by simplicity, humility, and unwavering faith. She lived as a wandering ascetic, detached from societal norms and possessions. Her soul was consumed by the fire of love for the Divine, as she roamed the streets of Kashmir, spreading her wisdom through her beautiful verses.

The Essence of Sufi Poetry: A Gateway to the Divine

Sufi poetry is a mystical art form that seeks to awaken the deepest recesses of the human soul. It transcends the boundaries of language and culture, conveying profound truths in an enchanting manner. Sufi poets use the power of metaphors, symbols, and imagery to express their experiences of divine love and the longing for oneness.

At the core of Sufi poetry lies the concept of divine love, known as Ishq. It is a love that goes beyond the worldly realm, a love that unites the lover (the poet) with the Beloved (the Divine). Through their mesmerizing verses, Sufi poets like Lalla Ded aim to ignite this divine spark within the hearts of their readers, leading them towards spiritual awakening.

The beauty of Sufi poetry lies in its ability to transcend time and space. Despite being penned centuries ago, the poems of Sufi mystics like Lalla Ded continue to resonate with the deepest emotions of humanity. They remind us of our forgotten connection with the divine and offer solace in the chaos of our modern lives.

Lalla Ded's Poems: A Glimpse into the Mystical Realm

LALLA DED: LIFE & POEMS

Translation & Paul Smith

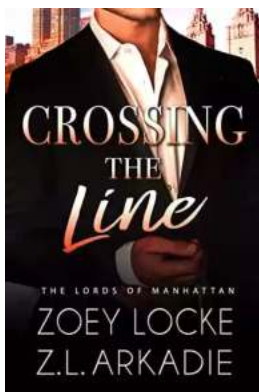

Lalla Ded is the famous female poet/saint from Kashmir who lived at exactly the same time as Hafiz of Shiraz (1320-1392). Her vakhs (poems/sayings) are sung even today in Kashmir. She was married at a young age but the marriage was a failure and she walked out at the age of twenty-four. She became a disciple of Siddha Srikanth. It must have taken a lot of courage on her part to walk out of a marriage and to walk around unclothed as she did. She was treated with contempt by some and much reverence by others, seeing her as a saint and eventually as God-realized. Her two hundred vakhs are some of the oldest examples of Kashmiri written. She was a bridge between Hindu mysticism and Sufism. Her poems are more influential today than ever, not only in Kashmir. Here are many of her poems with correct form and meaning. on her Life, Times & Poetry & on Sufi Poetry. 90 pages.
