In 1955, 21-year-old Paul Whitefield becomes the pastor of Community Chapel at Bethel Springs, Missouri. Like Bethel in the Bible, Bethel Springs started out as a godly community, but soon faces evildoers who try to corrupt the town like happened to the biblical Bethel. When Pastor Paul rises up to fight the wickedness in Bethel Springs he is persecuted and eventually has to leave town in disgrace when he is accused of burning down the rival church pastored by David Gannon.

Fifty years later, Paul Whitfield's grandson, Trey, is engaged to Rachel Gannon, the granddaughter of David Gannon. Her parents refuse to let their daughter marry the grandson of the arsonist who burned down her grandfather's church.

Seventy-one-year old Paul Whitefield returns to Bethel Springs to try and prove his innocence. He soon finds that the evildoers who forced him to leave town the first time are still there and again impede his investigation and threaten his life.

Fifty years ago, while living in Bethel Springs, Paul Whitfield found the love of his life. Will he be able to help his grandson keep the love of his life? Will he be able to live down the disgrace that has followed him like a black cloud?
